Everyone has a story to tell, and every story is worth telling.
What does your YAWP sound like? What are the stories of your family? What are the stories you have to tell?

This summer YAWP invites you to join us in an oral history project.

YAWP exists as a hate-free, anti-racist, anti-sexist, anti-homophobic, safe space for young Asians to create, grow, change, cultivate, reflect, and transform through art as critical and conscious expression. In a city historically unaware, unresponsive, and all too often patronizing of the history, culture and issues of the Asian diaspora, YAWP exists at the intersection of art and activism, individual growth and community empowerment.
